Letter from General Grant.

The following letter has been placed in our hands by a gentleman who furnishes it from a collection of autographs. nishes it from a collection of autographs. It was written by Major-General Grant to his father, 'rom Milliken's Bend, La, during the Vicksburg campaign. We print it just as it is, word for word. We have no hesitation in saying that a more remarkable document, and one that reflects more credit upon the illustrious writer, has not before been given to the American people. IN V. Triume to the American people. [N.Y. Tribune, MILLIKEN'S BEND, \

La., April 21 1863. Dear Father—Your letter of the 7th of April has just this day reached me. I hasten to answer your interrogations. When I left Memphis, with my past ex-perience, I prohibited trade below Hele-Trade to that point had previously been opened by the Treasury Department. I give no permits to buy cotton, and if I find any one engaged in the business I send them out of the Department and seize their cotton for the Government. I have given a few families permission to leave the country and to take with them so far as Memphis their cotton. In doing this I have been deceived by unprincipled speculators, who have successfully smuggled themselves along with the army in spite of orders prohibiting them, and have been compelled to suspend this favor to persons any lower to a tout of Diversity.

I shall receive from day to day new styles of Jewelry, Silver and Plated Ware, which I will sell at the lowest market rates.

By Watch repairing and engraving done promptly.

I understand that Government has adopted some plan to regulate getting the cotton out of the country. I do not know what plan they adopted, but am satisfied that any that can be adopted, except for Government totake the cotton together. speculating off the misfortunes of their country, and really aiding the enemy more than they possibly could do by open treason, should be drafted at once and put in the first forlorn hope.

I move my headquarters to New-Carthage to-morrow. This whole country is nearly away against the strength of the country is nearly away against the strength of the country is nearly away against the country is nearly the country of the country of the country is nearly away against the country in the country of the country of is under water, except strips of land behind the levees, along the river and bayous, and makes operations almost impossible. I struck upon a plan which I thought would give me a foothold on the east bank of the Mississippi before the enemy could offer any great resistance. But the difficulty of the last one and a half miles next to Carthage makes it so tedious that the enemy cannot fail to discover my plans. I am do-ing my best, and am full of hope for complete success. Time has been con-sumed, but it was absolutely impossible to avoid it.

An attack upon the rebel works at any time since I arrived here must inevitably have resulted in the loss of a large portion of my army, if not in an entire defeat. There were but two points of land, Haines Bluff and Vicksburg itself, out of water at any place from which troops could march. These are thoroughly fortified, and it would be folly to attack them as long as there is a prospect of turning their position. I never expect to have an army under my command whipped, unless it is very badly whipped and can't help it; but I have no idea of being driven to do a desperate or foolish act by the howlings of the press. It is painful to me, as a matter of course, to see the course pursued by some of the papers. But there is no one less disturbed by them than myself

"No sir," was the reply.
"Well, I am dealing in pens, supplying the New England banks pretty largely, and I suppose it will be proper for me to deal with the cashier."
"I suppose it will," said the teller.

to Lake Superior, and told me he thought he would be back about that time.' Peddler thought he would not wait. "Oh, you may stay if you wish," said the teller blandly. "We have no objection to your sitting here in the daytime, and you can probably find some place in town where they will be glad

A Bridget applied to the family of a citizen up town yesterday, with her clothes dripping like a water-spout. On being interrogated as to her condition, she understood the lady of the house wanted a wet nurse, and she had come ready for service.
